Yale College offers a course of study in Computing and Linguistics (C&L). This interdisciplinary major provides training in the field of computational linguistics/natural language processing. Students take coursework in Computer Science, Linguistics and Statistics & Data Science, and also have the opportunity, through coursework and research, to explore the role that computational models of language can play across a range of disciplines, from the humanities to the social sciences to the sciences.